Ryhia Dank, a young Gudanji/Wakaja artist from the Northern Territory is the winner of the prestigious National NAIDOC poster competition for 2022 with her entry, Stronger.

"I created this piece after reading this year's National NAIDOC Week theme – Get Up! Stand Up! Show Up! I knew straight away I wanted to do a graphic piece centred around our flags with text highlighting what we have been through and are still fighting for" said Ryhia. "I feel that this piece being black and white allows us to focus on the details and messages in the artwork"

National Reconciliation Week

National Reconciliation Week (NRW) is a time for all Australians to learn about our shared histories, cultures, and achievements, and to explore how each of us can contribute to achieving reconciliation in Australia.

3 June 1992 On this day, the Australian High Court delivered the Mabo decision, the culmination of Eddie Koiki Mabo’s challenge to the legal fiction of ‘terra nullius’ (land belonging to no one) and leading to the legal recognition of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples as the Traditional Owners and Custodians of lands. This decision paved the way for Native Title.

Reconciliation Week 2022

7 May 1967

On this day, Australia’s most successful referendum saw more than 90 per cent of Australians vote to give the Australian Government power to make laws for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people and recognise them in the Census.

CNS

CUSTODY NOTIFICATION SERVICE

Every time an Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander person is taken into custody at a police facility, the police must notify the Aboriginal Legal Service of WA (ALSWA) CNS.

The ALSWA CNS is a phone service that operates: 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, every day of the year.

The phone service provides welfare and legal advice to Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people in custody in a police facility.

The person in custody will be able to speak to the CNS staff member about things like:

- » how they are feeling;
- » whether they need medical attention or access to medication;
- » whether they need the assistance of an interpreter or a support person while in custody;
- » whether they would like the CNS to contact a family member;
- » their legal rights and responsibilities while they are in police custody;
- » information about the reason they are in custody and what is likely to happen next; and/or
- » whether they need help with anything when they are released from custody (the CNS can make referrals to services in the community if the person in custody wants this).

If you are arrested or apprehended and taken to a police facility, the police will telephone the CNS.

The police will ask you if you want to speak to the ALSWA CNS.

The ALSWA CNS would like to talk to you to make sure you are ok and explain various things to you.

Even if you don't want a lawyer from ALSWA to represent you later on, the CNS staff member would still like to talk to you to check you are ok and provide you with important initial legal advice. If requested, the CNS can send information to your lawyer of choice.
